A little more room to be you.

We believe everyday clothing should make life easier, not ask you to adjust to it. That's why we focus on breathable fabrics, practical details and silhouettes that move with you.

WHY SUM EXISTS
We wanted more room in our clothes.
Room for bodies to change.
Room for personalities to show.
Room for work, travel, errands and whatever came after.
So instead of making clothes for one kind of woman or one kind of day, we started making pieces that could move between them.
Simple. Easy. Made for real days.

We wanted more room in our clothes.

Room for changing bodies, different personalities and days that don't always go as planned.

So we started creating easy, functional clothing that moves between work, weekends and everything in between.

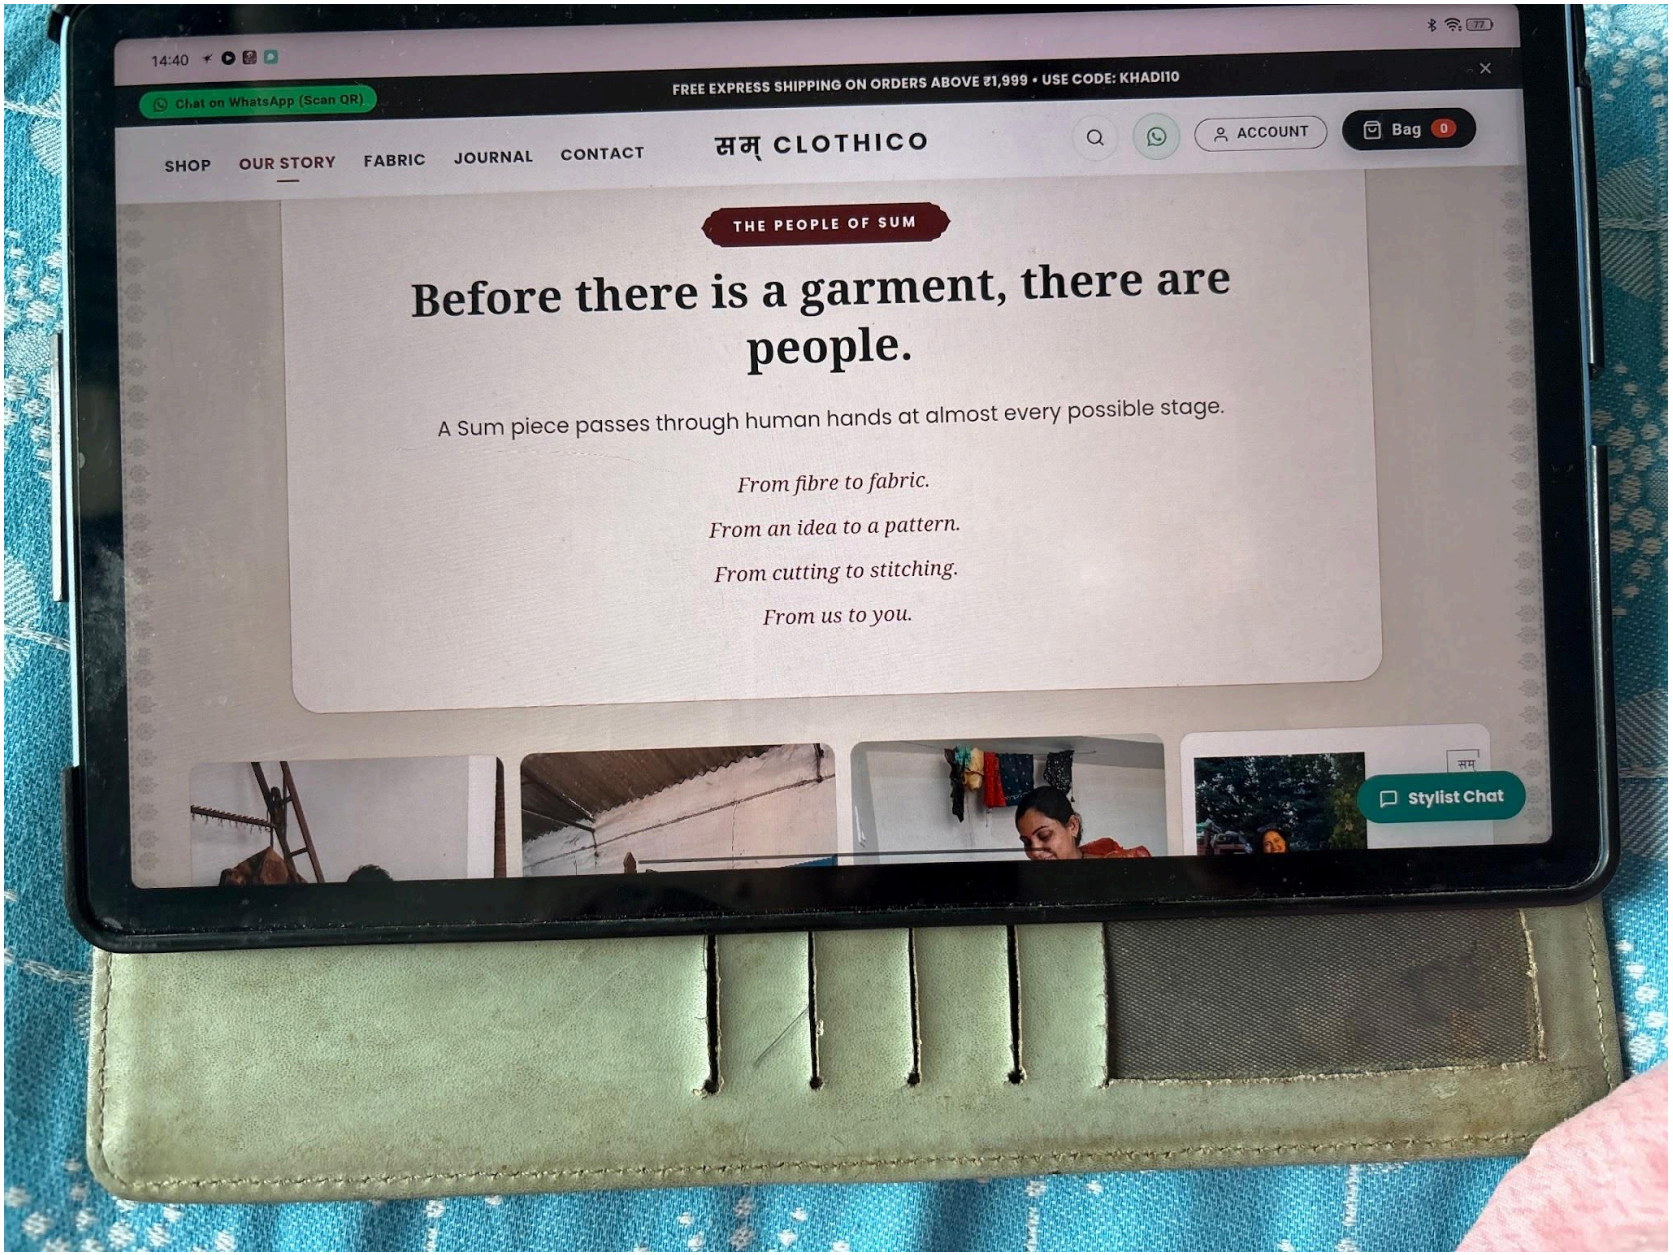

Simple. Easy. Made for real days.

SECTION 3 · THE PEOPLE

Before there's a garment, there are people.

Spinners, weavers, designers and tailors — different hands and skills come together to create every Sum piece.

THE PEOPLE OF SUM
Before there is a garment, there are people.
A Sum piece passes through human hands at almost every possible stage.
From fibre to fabric.
From an idea to a pattern.
From cutting to stitching.
From us to you.

SECTION 4 · THE FOUNDER & THE MAKERS

An idea, brought to life by many hands.

What started in Rewa with a simple question — could everyday clothing feel more like the women wearing it? — grew into Sum Clothico.

Today, our women tailors bring these ideas to life, one thoughtfully made piece at a time.

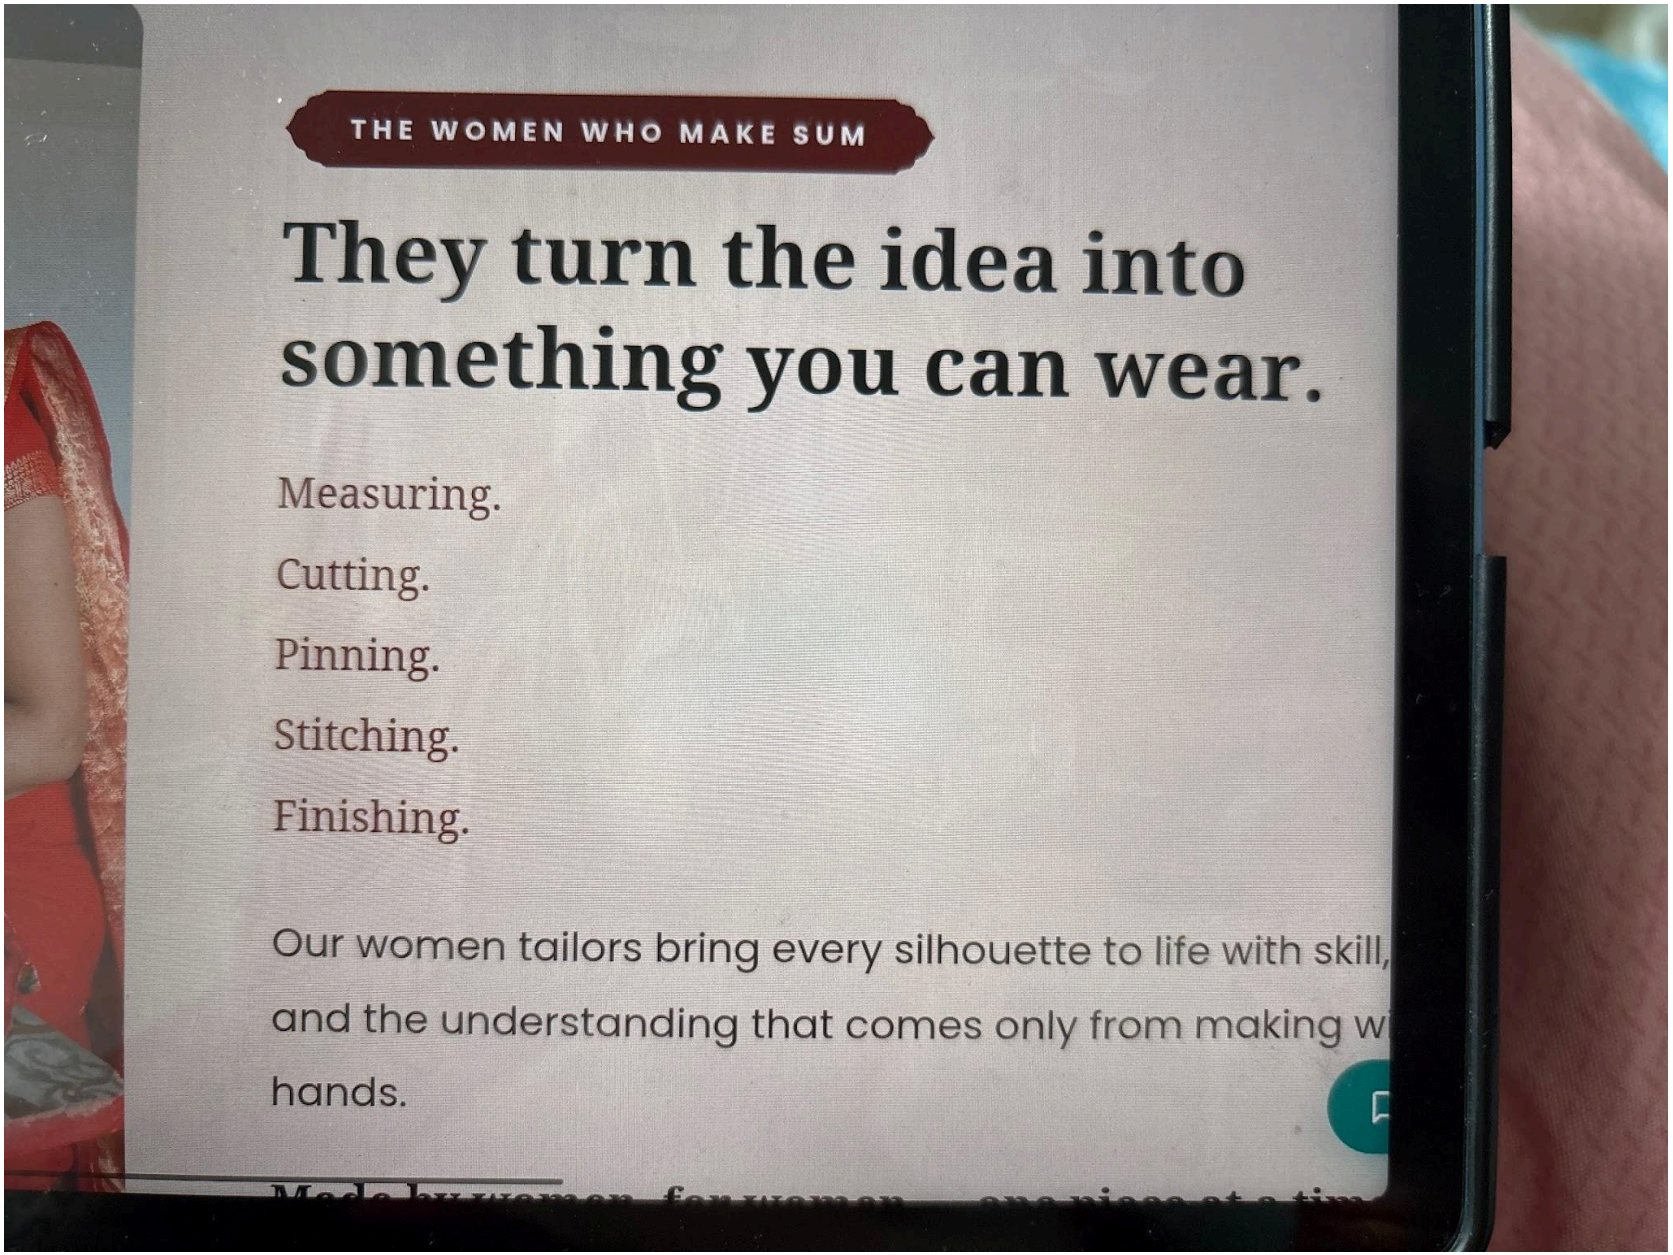

THE ARTISANS

They make the cloth.

Spinners and weavers turn fibre into fabric through skill, rhythm and time.

Every metre carries small variations — traces of the hands that made it.

SECTION 1 · INTRODUCTION

It begins with the cloth.

Before a Sum piece takes shape, there's a fabric, a place and the people behind it.

Our journey begins with Khadi cotton from Madhya Pradesh — handspun, handwoven and full of character.

SECTION 2 · THE SOURCE

Rooted in Madhya Pradesh.

We're beginning our textile journey close to home, exploring the craft, people and processes behind Khadi cotton.

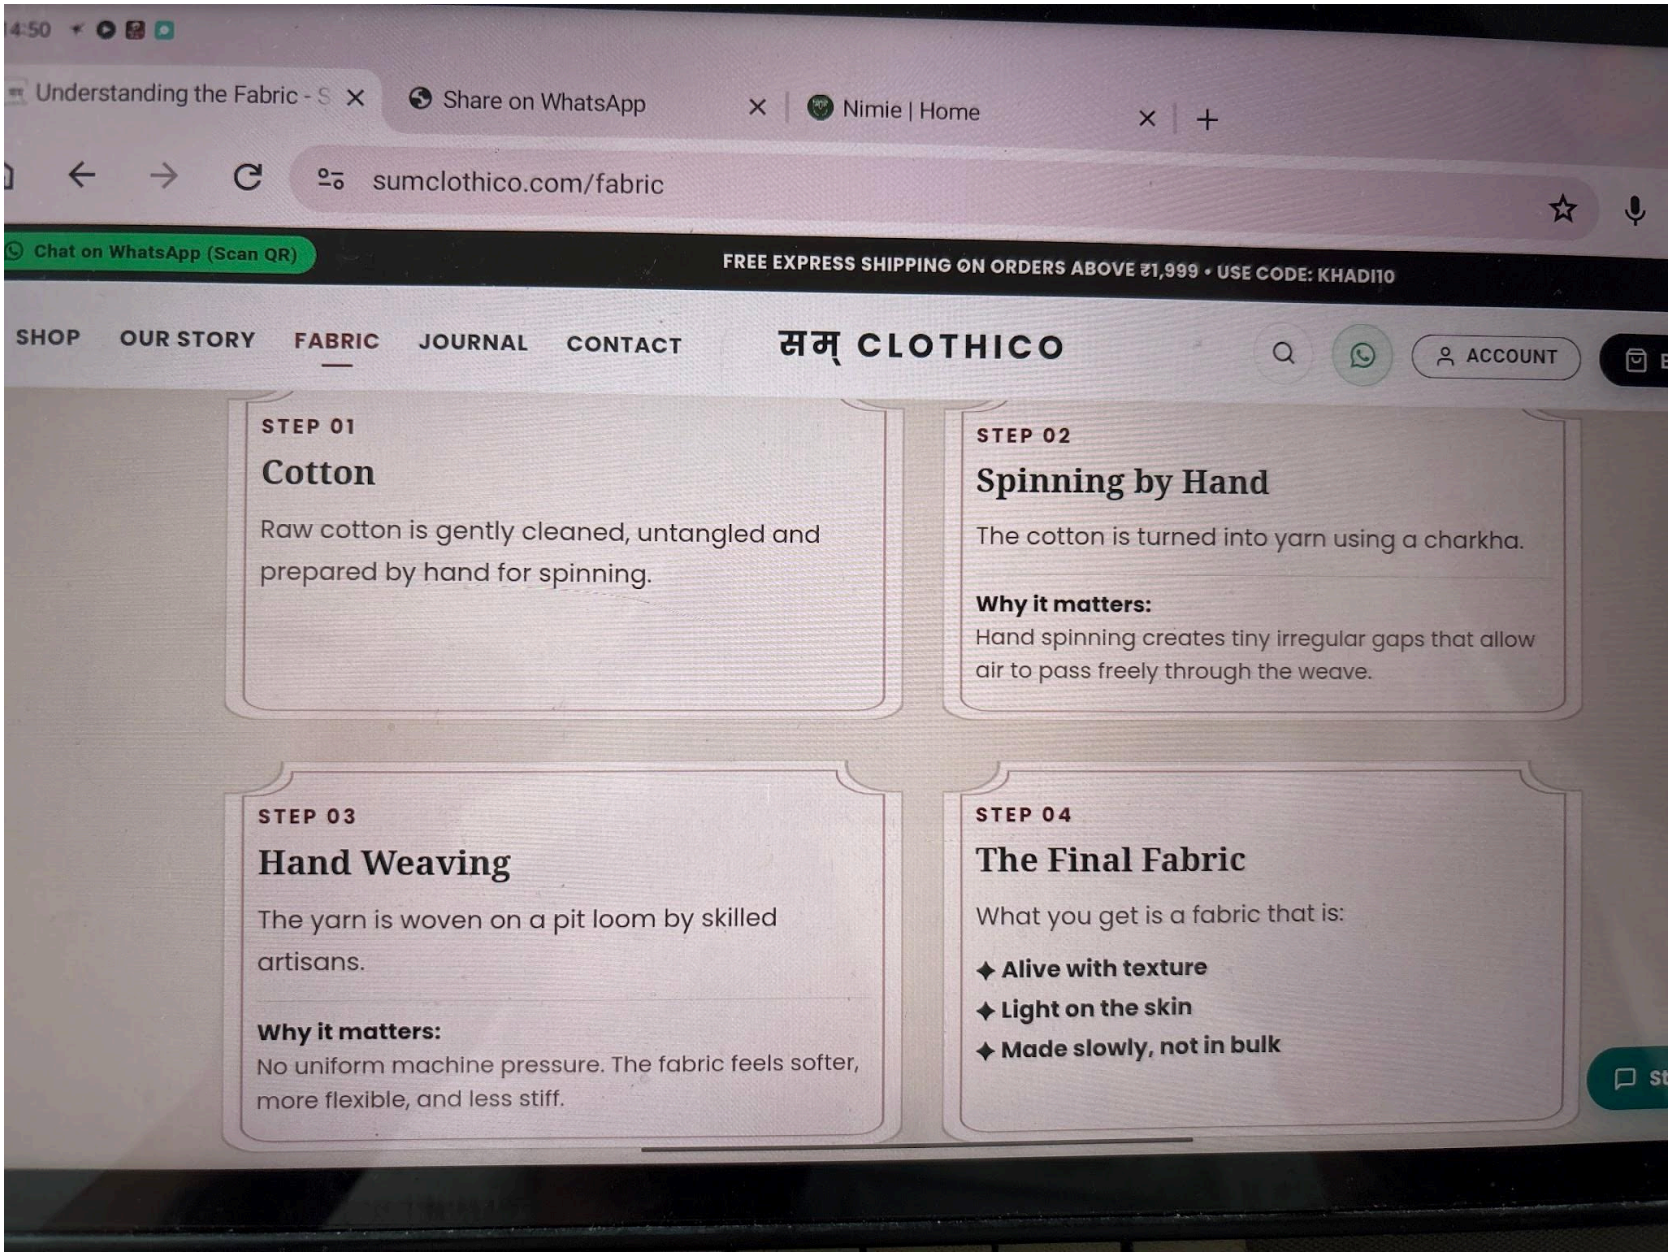

Retain your existing cooperative details, photographs and official source link here, provided they accurately document the fabric's origin.

SECTION 3 · WHAT IS KHADI?

Made by hand, thread by thread.

Khadi is a textile made from handspun yarn and handwoven on a loom.

The process gives the fabric its characteristic texture and natural variations — small reminders of the human hands behind it.

STEP 01
Cotton
Raw cotton is gently cleaned, untangled and prepared by hand for spinning.
STEP 02
Spinning by Hand
The cotton is turned into yarn using a charkha.
Why it matters:
Hand spinning creates tiny irregular gaps that allow air to pass freely through the weave.
STEP 03
Hand Weaving
The yarn is woven on a pit loom by skilled artisans.
Why it matters:
No uniform machine pressure. The fabric feels softer, more flexible, and less stiff.
STEP 04
The Final Fabric
What you get is a fabric that is:
✦ Alive with texture
✦ Light on the skin
✦ Made slowly, not in bulk

Show the process visually: Cotton → Spinning → Weaving → Fabric.

SECTION 4 · WHY WE CHOSE IT

Comfort you can feel.

We love Khadi for its natural texture, breathability and the way cotton Khadi can soften with use and washing.

It doesn't have to look perfectly uniform to be beautiful. And that's part of what makes it special.

SECTION 5 · KHADI FOR TODAY

An old craft. A place in today's wardrobe.

Traditional fabric doesn't have to mean traditional clothing.

At Sum, we bring Khadi into contemporary silhouettes, with practical details and easy fits for the lives women lead today.

COMPARISON

Why Choose Khadi Over Cotton or Linen?

Most people think: "Isn't this just cotton?" Not really.

Airy

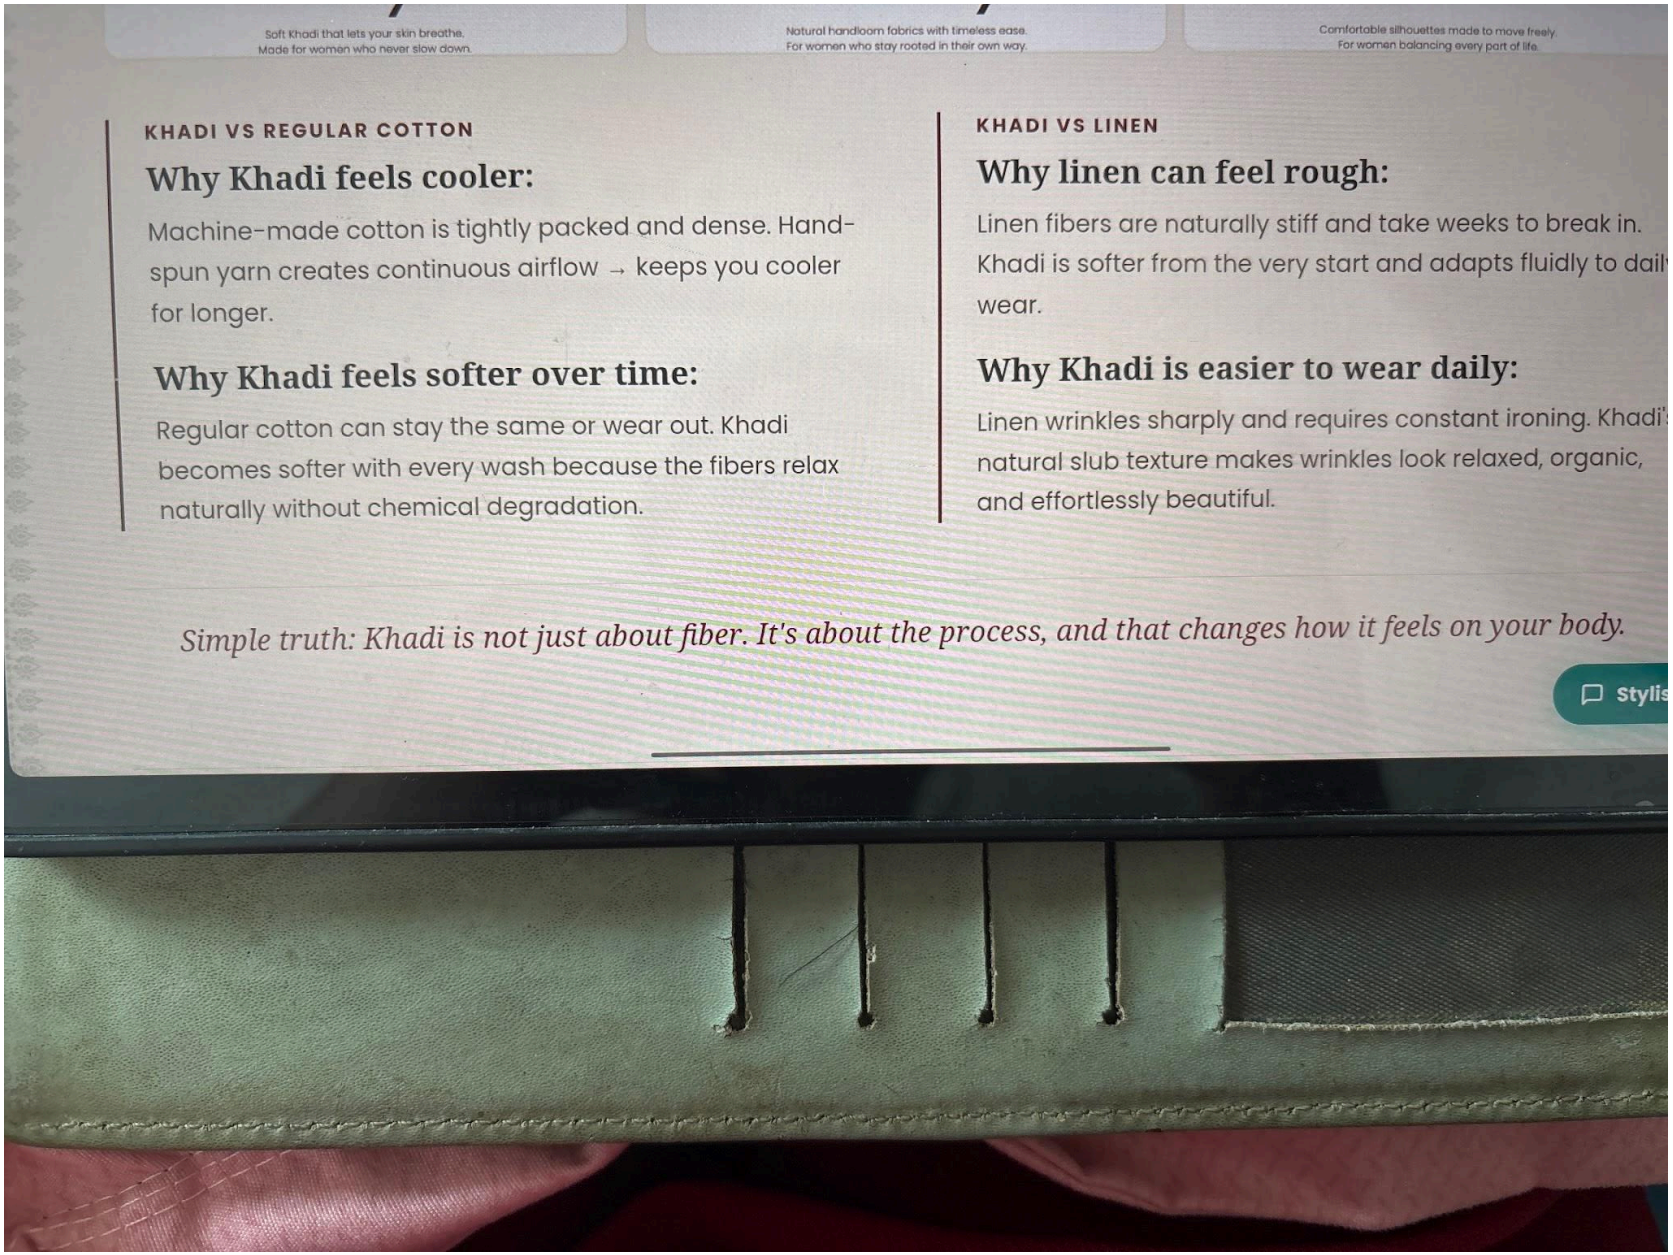

Earthy

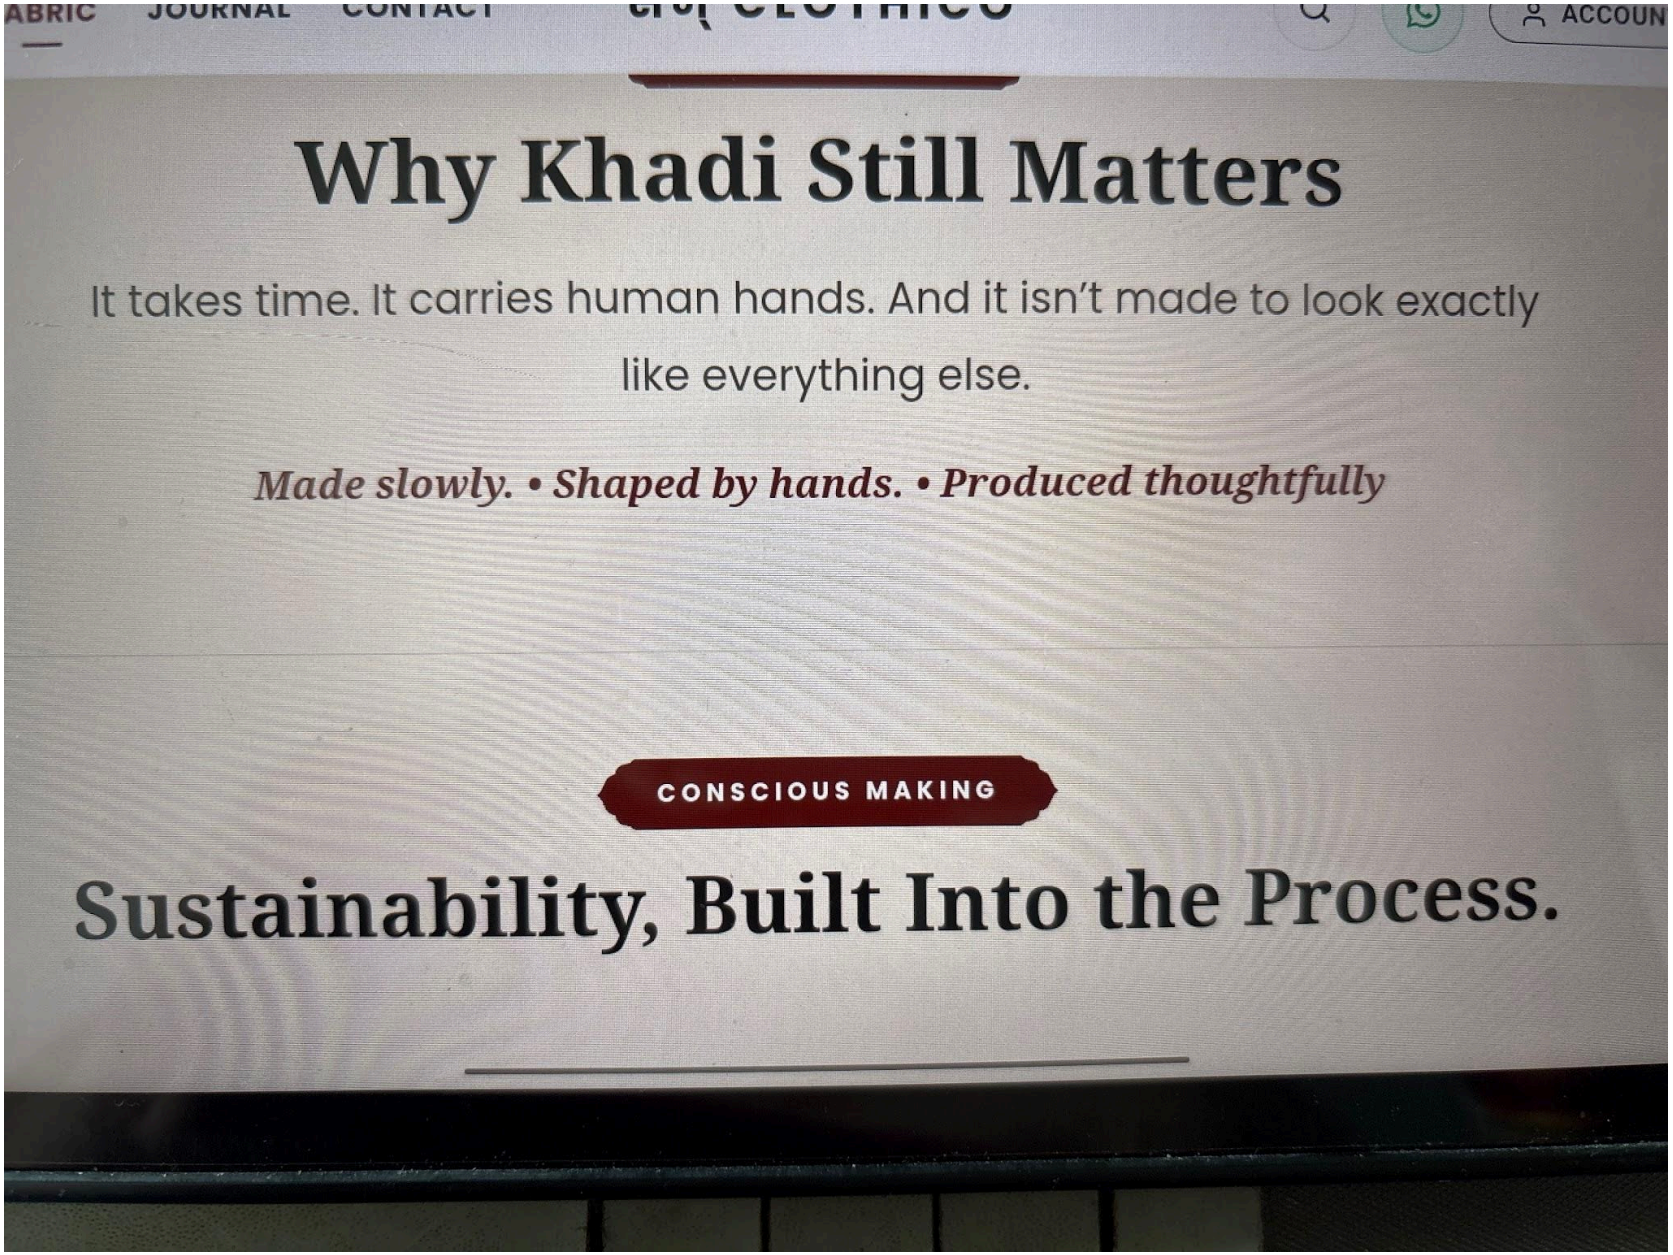

Flui

Remove text keep only images

Soft Khadi that lets your skin breathe.
Made for women who never slow down.
Natural handloom fabrics with timeless ease.
For women who stay rooted in their own way.
Comfortable silhouettes made to move freely.
For women balancing every part of life.
KHADI VS REGULAR COTTON
Why Khadi feels cooler:
Machine-made cotton is tightly packed and dense. Hand-spun yarn creates continuous airflow → keeps you cooler for longer.
Why Khadi feels softer over time:
Regular cotton can stay the same or wear out. Khadi becomes softer with every wash because the fibers relax naturally without chemical degradation.
KHADI VS LINEN
Why linen can feel rough:
Linen fibers are naturally stiff and take weeks to break in. Khadi is softer from the very start and adapts fluidly to dail wear.
Why Khadi is easier to wear daily:
Linen wrinkles sharply and requires constant ironing. Khadi' natural slub texture makes wrinkles look relaxed, organic, and effortlessly beautiful.
Simple truth: Khadi is not just about fiber. It's about the process, and that changes how it feels on your body.
